Garbage Committee from Council in police circles.

May Advertise Again for Bids. Mayor Denny came home yesterday from New York city, where he paid off part of the city's refunding bonds and undertook law, was being organized. The idea was to negotiate with the American Reduction Company. He did not see the officers of the company after receiving the letter in which they declined to sign the contract made by their agent, Mr. Campbell, and which was forwarded to President Holton, of the Board of Public Works. Mayor Denny does not believe that the American Reduction Company will consent to collect the city garbage for less than $20,000 a year. The secretary of the company told the Mayor that Agent Campbell had exceeded his authority slightly in offering to do the work for $12,000 a law.

year, and intimated that the agent had been "talked" into making a verbal contract by some of the Indianapolis officials.

The Mayor will confer with the city attorney and President Holton before taking any further steps in the garbage matter. A meeting of the garbage committee will be called the first of the week, when the question will be discussed. It is probable that the committee will decide to advertise for bids again. The American Reduction Company has agreed to put in a bid for the collection of garbage not exceeding $20,000. It is not thought that the city would gain anything by bringing a suit against the reducthing by bringing a suit against the reduc-tion company to compel the enforcement of the contract made by Mr. Campbell. FIRST SUNDAY IN INDIANAPOLIS UN-DER THE NICHOLSON LAW.

Drug Store Furnishes First Sunday Arrest-Mayor Applies Pointers from Mr. "Teddy" Roosevelt.

While Mayor Denny was in New York he held a conversation-with Mr. Roosevelt who has won fame as a police commissioner of that city. It is said Mr. Denny and Mr. Roosevelt exchanged views upon police management of a great city and upon civil service as applied to city affairs. Mr. Denny told of the struggle in this city to have the laws enforced and he returned with a fresh supply of energy for the work. One of Mr. Denny's first acts upon returning yesterday morning was to call 59c | upon Superintendent Powell and tell how the laws of New York city are being enforced. Then Mr. Denny and Mr. Powell took a drive about the city to see how the Nicholson law was being obeyed, and Mr. Denny was highly pleased with what he saw. He said it reminded him very much of New York. As Mr. Denty and Mr. Powell are known by every patrolman on the force it was impossible for them to make any such discoveries as Mr. Roosevelt made upon some of his expeditions No patrolmen told the Indianapolis officials to "go chase themselves" or threatened "to patrolmen were seen standing talking together and it was decided that such was a thing which had to be stopped. The patrolinen were up before Superintendent Powell last evening and informed that they are expected to patrol their beats.

> Yesterday was probably the quietest Sunday this city has ever seen. The old residents say they never saw the city assume such a peaceful and Sabbath-like appearance as it did. The streets down town looked depopulated. An occasional pedestrian, vehicle or street car was all that reminded one that life still existed in the business precincts. The usual crowd of loungers along the stady sides of the streets was missing. The man who made dire predictions regarding the future of the city should the Nicholson bill be entoward the center of the car tracks, where he has prophesied the dog fennel would man had disappeared. When Allen jumped as tight as they were on the Fourth, but on that date the fire crackers furnished the hotels headquarters in days past upon Sundays and holidays are going somewhere else now, either to their homes, to the cool woods or to some place where there is no Nicholson law or no Superintendent Powell. Private picnics carried a majority of the people away yesterday, as hundreds of private parties spent the day in the neighborhood of the city. Some of these parties took kegs of beer with them.

ROAD HOUSE VIOLATION.

Plenty of Beer on Shelbyville Road, One Mile South of the City. A. Van Jelgerhaus, one mile south of the city, on the Shelbyville road, is one man that does not know the Nicholson law now in force, or, at least, his actions yesterday would indicate as much. In a little frame building, at what is commonly known as McLainsville, he is the proprietor of a small family grocery and saoon. In the front he has a room, not more than 10x12 feet, that is filled with a general assortment of groceries and some other household necessities. Back of this room is another, about 6x10 feet, where liquid re-freshment is dispensed. Hanging conspicu-ously over the shelves behind the bar are two frames, containing his city and county licenses to sell liquors to be drunk on the Yesterday two men stopped at his place just as he opened the front door to allow another man to pass out. They stepped in, and were not even questioned as to what they wanted. A half a dozen men were ered in the little back room, but none them were drinking.

"Can we get some 'rice cordial' to-day?" he was asked. "I don't know what that is, but you can get almost anything you want." He led the way to the back room and stood behind the bar awaiting orders.
"Two beers," was the only order given him, and it was not a moment before it was produced.

There is absolutely no pretense of complying with the provisions of the new law.

Men could be seen passing in and out of the place all day yesterday, and there was seldom a time when two or more buggles could not be seen standing in front waiting for their thirsty occupants to leave the place where the proprietor has not heard of the Nicholson law. He could not lower his screens and permit a view of the interior, for he has none. There is an outside door to the barroom, but it is solid wood. The bar cannot be seen from the front on account of the way groceries are piled up in the front room. It is as free and easy a him, a new environment encompassed him, place as could be found before the new law lifting him to the new conditions. Paul rose became the law of the State.

living in the eastern part of the city is raided a crap game in the neighborhood of aiding thirsty men to get around the new of the awful power of environment of evil on the table. Most of the men arrested prescriptions for drinks, which can be filled were colored. They were locked in a room, at any drug store. Each prescription costs ing, a well-known Christian worker, conwith Albertsmeyer and Hunter on the in- 10 cents, and they can be refilled. It is side guarding them.

Sergeant Lowe went to call the patrol wagon, and when he returned he found the two patrolmen by themselves, debating how the prisoners happened to escape. It all was so sudden that they don't know yet lust how it did happen. There was a yell, and with one rush, the prisoners made for a window, forcing their way out and jumping a few feet to the ground. The patrolmen used their clubs, but seemingly to no effect. They couldn't even capture one as an evidence that there had been a raid, and Sergeant Lowe was mad. He is being told by the other sergeants that it was all a dream, and that no game was raided, but Lowe says there was a raid, and his report. Love says there was a raid, and his report to Superintendent Powell indicates that such was the case. The two patrolmen were cautioned to be more alert.

MAYOR RETURNS FROM NEW YORK.

MAYOR RETURNS FROM NEW YORK.

Council is elling liquor without a license and seiling on Sunday. It is alleged that she sold a bottle of beer without a prescription, but she claims it was for medicinal purposes. With the exception of her arrest there was but one other during the day, a minor assault and battery case. The two days upon which the saloons have been closed because of the new law have been very quiet ones in police circles.

A Co-Operative Saloon That Failed. A few days before the Nicholson law went into effect a down-town club, designed to overcome objectionable features of the not particularly new, being taken from a cooperative saloon organized in a town in the north part of the State. It was the intention to establish a down-town saloon, each member of the club paying a portion of the license. Each member was to be furnished a card of membership, and in this way it was expected to get around the law. The membership was not limited. Superintendent Powell heard of the proposed plan and began to make inquiries. Friday a committee called upon him and said the scheme had been abandoned, as the promoters, after consideration, decided not to place themselves in open opposition to the Wouldn't Sell the Alcohol.

So exact is one prominent druggist's in terpretation of the law that a few days ago he refused to sell an old customer a pint of alcohol, although it was known for what the stuff was wanted. The druggist de-manded a prescription, which was obtained, after which the alcohol was sold. The purchaser is employed in a leading Washing-ton-street establishment, and the alcohol was wanted for the purpose of cleaning some dress material which had been soiled. A young man was sent to a druggist, who declined to sell the alcohol. A prominent physician was consulted about the case, and he prescribed one pint of alcohol, "to be applied externally."

Out-of-Town Unions Will Come. At the meeting yesterday, in English's Hotel, of the committee having charge of the Labor-day celebration, E. W. Kingham and Charles Kostler, of the Pressmen's Union, and Julius Zorn and John Zanaker. of the Brewery Workers' Union, presented credentials and were seated. The reports of the several committees showed progress. An invitation was authorized to be sent to parade and the festivities of the day. This section will be allowed a delegation in the committee. Letters were read from unions in Fort Wayne, Anderson, Vincennes and other places accepting the invitation to be present. The Vincennes carpenters wrote in decisive brevity as follows:

"Carpenters' Union, No. 658, of Vincennes, will be with you. Make room in the demonstration for us."

BLOOMERS WOULD BE SAFER. Wind Badly Tangled a Young Woman's Skirt in the Wheel.

The wanton wind in the threatened storm last evening caught the widely flowing skirts of a young lady riding a bicycle as she was passing along Pennsylvania street near Market, and entangled them in the wheel. In an instant she was lying prostrate on the street and was so tied up that she could not extricate herself. Her escort ran to her relief, but he could not alone pull the skirt out of the wheel. Some passers by had to help him and in the meantime the "unhorsed" rider was lying on the ground. When she regained her feet, her dress was still caught. She was not hurt, and remounting rode away. "Bloomers would not have caused such an accident," remarked one observer, as the couple disappeared around the corner. "She ought to adopt them if she wants to ride a wheel for pleasure."

UNUSUAL SUICIDE

JACOB ALLEN, A YOUNG COLORED MAN, JUMPS INTO THE CANAL.

Deliberately Drowned Himself in Comparatively Shallow Water-Probble Disappointment in Love.

Very few colored persons commit suicide, but another case was added yesterday to the comparatively small list by Jacob Allen drowning himself in the canal. No one claims to know why Allen should wish to die. His successful effort was deliberate and something unusual. Ambrose Tillman saw Allen jump from the Fifth-street bridge over the canal. Tillforced looked triumphantly and expectantly but he rushed to the scene to find that the for a minute, measured the distance to the some noise. It was seen yesterday what a closed Sunday was like, and those people who think the day should be observed as intended should be satisfied, while those seconds until a crowd collected and unsuccanal and laid down. It was but a few seconds until a crowd collected and unsuccessful efforts were made to recover the body. The police were notified, and later Coroner Castor was summoned. The employes of Charles Whitsett soon brought the body to the surface, after which it was taken to the morgue. Allen was twenty-two years old and boarded with his sister, at No. 16 Lafayette street. He was unmarried and drove a brick wagon for a livelihood. He has parents living at the corner of Central avenue and Fifteenth street. It is said by some that disappointment in love was the cause of the suicide.

THE GROWTH IN GRACE.

Rev. Dr. Rondthaler's Last Sermon Before Taking His Summer Vacation.

Rev. Dr. Rondthaler preached to his congregation at the Tabernacle Church yesterday for the last time previous to his vacation. He will leave to-might with the large party of Christian Endeavorers who are going to Boston to the convention. Dr. Rondwas "Growth in Grace," taken from an utterance of the Apostle Paul. The grace in the text, he said, means those qualities which are found in the character of Christ, tues merely of name, to be counted on the fingers, but are the essential and forceful elements in Christ's character-His love, His wisdom and His power to resist temptation. These qualties are the condition of growth in grace. They were made attainthe creatures of surroundings. Evangelical Christianity, the Doctor said, nowhere enters a denial of the power and molding influence of environment. On the other hand, it carries this sociological truth to its ultimate conclusion, to its logical result. Christ gave the key to it when He said: "Be not overcome with evil, but overcome evil with good." Christ, in you, conthued the Doctor, is more masterful than and works of Paul, showing that up to a

The sermon then discussed the character certain point he was a creature of environment. But a greater truth was revealed to superior to his old environment-a new power was born in hlm. This was Christ's spirit. He formed new friendships and uniertook new duties. He widened his knowledge of Christ, and his character was shaped and beautified thereby. Your strong intimacles, the Doctor said, shape your life and character. The Doctor then vividly de-scribed a visit to a rescue mission on South listening to the appeals of the speaker he was given a new insight into the parable was given a new insight into the parable of hunting for the lost piece of silver. His picturing of the contrast between the speaker and a victim of evil habits in the audience was especially effective. The earnest, tender pleading of the speaker, he said, whose eyes glowed with his intense love of souls, made a picture in which the heavenly and hell seemed to come as close together as they ever do on earth. It was a revelation, he said, of how Christ comes to earth and contributes a new environment without suffering contamination from the evil surroundings invaded. The sermon then took up the other social relation-heredity. It is an awful truth, the preacher said, but it cannot be denied. He referred to prison statistics as shown in the Elmira prison, for instance, that 92 per cent, of the inmates had come from criminal antecedents. The tribe of Ishmael in Marion county, whose family tree, he said, had been compiled by Frank Wright, showed the truth of heredity. There never was any other remedy, Dr. Rondthaler said, for the terrible effects of heredity than the saving power of Christ. There is no other salvation for one engulfed in the black stream of inherited crime than the power of Christ to lift and cleanse from stain. The sacrifice of Jesus made it no longer necessary to await the passing of genera-tions, under physical and social evolution, for regeneration. The plan of salvation per-fected by Christ provides a new birth—the sinner may be born again into a new life, into a new environment The Doctor showed that our Christianity is as our knowledge of Christ, and urged that Christians strive for ever-widening knowledge. He further showed that the soul

Friends Furnishing Their Church. The ladies of the Friends' Church have organized themselves into bands of ten for the purpose of raising $10 each for the furnishing of their new church. The conditions are that each lady is to earn the money in some way, and must not beg it from hus-band or father. Some are sewing and sell-ing the product, others are making fancy work and disposing of it through the Wom-an's Exchange, and still others are making candy and selling it to their friends. The church will be ready for occupancy by Sep-tember.

INDIANAPOLIS COMPANY WILL MARK UP PRICES TO-DAY.

National Starch Company to Build an Elevator-The Car Works Has Plenty of Orders.

The chair factories continue to be very busy. In speaking of the matter on Saturday President Helwig, of the Indianapolis Chair Company, said his company was running its works at their fullest capacity, and was then behind in its orders. The company had sent letters to every one of its customers, who are to be found in every State and Territory of the Union, that on Monday, July 8, the prices on the full lines of goods would be advanced. Through the depressed times and the sharp competition, Mr. Helwig says, prices dropped to figures which left but little margin, and his concern tired of doing business at little or no profit. He thought that the movement would be general, so far as chairs are concerned, at least. When asked why the furniture buslness as a whole had become so depressed that manufactories were running only half time and half-handed, he said he could not for the life of him give the reason, unless the furniture manufacturers had become so used to whining about their business that they could not see the bright spot, and were waiting to have trade forced upon them. He added: "I learn that they are selling a good many cheap goods, which may have something to do with the matter. Indianapolis manufactories usually manufacture only high-class goods, and on highclassed goods prices rule very low, so glut-ted was the market when the depression struck the country."

Will Build an Elevator.

Indianapolis has one of the largest and most prosperous plants for the manufacture of starch in the country-the National starch works. Through the hard times these works have been pushing things, converting four thousand to five thousand bushels of corn a day into starch. This ten players, as well as the dice and money thing out of the business. He furnishes audience, and a further exemplification of as domestic, trade, and is credited with the new environment experienced by Paul turning out a superior article of starch. turning out a superior article of starch. For years past it has greatly needed an elevator, and the company is now to take steps in that direction, and will probably within the next sixty days begin the erection of an elevator of 200,000 bushels capacity. It may possibly further add, says Mr. Piel, to the main buildings, which have been enlarged twice in the last few years.

Lembard & Griffith, manufacturers of bakers' machinery, are building up an ex-cellent trade and a small beginning has become quite an important industry. Last week the company shipped machinery to several of the Western States and last month shipped machinery for bakeries to Canada and England.

The Keyless Lock Company is crowded with orders, working full time and the largest number of people at any time in its history. The works are having a big run on keyless banks and find it almost impossible to keep up with the orders. Last week the company shipped postoffice fix-tures to the South African republic and filled a large order of their postoffice specialties to go to London. The large addition to the Indiana Cotton mills is nearing completion and the machinery being placed in position. Work is well advanced on the bleachery. This plant when completed will be one of the largest west of the Allegheny mountains and the best constructed and most complete cotton mill in the country as the Love Brothers have purchased only the most modern and perfect cotton machinery built.

A few months ago the Van Camp Pack-ing Company decided to fill up the time between packing season by baking beans and furnishing them to the local groceries then the lamps have been gradually torn and those over the State at a price which would make it to their advantage to handle them. This has come to be a very important industry, giving employment to eighty peo-ple. It requires three hundred bushels of beans a day to supply the demand and twelve barrels of pork.

TRENE SALER YET LIVES.

The Bullet Still in Her Brain-Seems to Recognize Relatives.

Irene Saler, the fifteen-year-old girl who shot herself in the head Friday night, was alive last night, much to the surprise of the physicians. She has been unconscious since | 111. she received her wound, which the doctors pronounced fatal as soon as they held an examination. Friday night it was hardly expected that the young girl would live through the night. The bullet is supposed to be in the brain, and it is regarded as remarkable that she should live as long as she has with such an injury. Many people called at No. 6 Fletcher avenue, where she lies, to inquire concerning her condition. Only relatives have been allowed in the room, and at times she seems Occasionally there is a case where a person lives for some days with a bullet in the brain, but such cases are rare, and extremely so where the victim is a child. It is the belief of some of the neighbors that the girl shot nerself intentionally, although the truth will probably never be known. It is said that on the Fourth she worked in the store all day, while other children were at picnics and making the day one of enjoyment.

Officers Rebuked for Lack of "Horse Sense"-Samples of the Cases in Which Arrests Were Made.

"I am glad that Judge Stubbs has taken his present stand in the disposal of petty violations of city ordinances," remarked a citizen the other morning just after the adjournment of Police Court. "The police dockets are full of these cases where a litbusiness is not an inconsiderable one, and the discretion on the part of police officers would have saved lots of trouble and have cost the city no sacrifice." A perusal of the docket corroborated the assertion of the speaker. The prisoner was loaded in and carted off to the police

Judge Stubbs had known the prisoner for years and knew him to be a good citizen. He promptly suspended sentence and suggested to the liceman who had made the arrest that his action had sadly lacked the elements of "good horse sense." Another instance of hasty action on the part of the police is found in cases Nos. 1106 and 1107, where two German citizens were arrested under an old German citizens were arrested under an old ordinance. For years these Germans have operated small dairy farms in the extreme southern part of the city.
